Your attention is drawn to the notes set out on the reverse of this account.

Interest on overdue accounts

- (a) I am entitled to charge interest on this account if it remains unpaid after the expiry of one month from its delivery.
- (b) The rate of interest is that payable for the time being on judgement debts (currently 4.5% per annum)
- (c) Your attention is also drawn to the note set out on the reverse of this account.

Complaint

If you are unhappy about the bill, please contact me immediately. I have a procedure in place which details how I handle complaints and I will send this to you if you wish.

You can also make a complaint to the Legal Complaints Service (or the Office for Legal Complaints), an independent complaints handling body. Their address is: Victoria Court, 8, Dormer Place, Royal Leamington Spa, Warwickshire CV32 5AE.

Assessment by the Court

You may be entitled to have my charges reviewed by the Court. This is called assessment. The procedure is set out under Part III of the Solicitors Act 1974.

Except in special circumstances, the Court will not order assessment of a bill more than 12 months after its delivery.

In all cases, interest on the amount of the bill (including any disbursements) will be calculated with reference to the amount finally ascertained.

I would prefer to discuss any problems with you first in the hope of reaching a solution.
